Meanwhile many traders complain of a fall in their miserly number of over 70% in 3 weeks, and some even of partial unemployment, as blockages prevented, and made for customers. The petition published on change.org calls for "lower prices" for fuel, which has reached more than 1,061,000 signatures today.-----

Last week, the Yellow Vests had set up more than 1000 points of blocking at roundabouts of large and smaller cities, in addition to the big demonstration of the Champs Elysees, which ended with a rampage of the shops, and d; attacks on the police, (tear gas, water cannon, molotov cocktail, throwing objects, and paves ..) by anarchists who have invited themselves to the cortege of G8lets Jaunes. The movement, which has been going on for 13 days, continues and seems to be gaining momentum, as this recent and unprecedented movement did not succeed in establishing a dialogue, or even presenting clear and definite demands on elected representatives, and at the most the French state,

Some MPs were intimidated and threatened at home, like MP LREM, Mireille Robert, by Yellow Vests, who have entered his home. The eight spokesmen, Vests, Yellow refused to go to Matignon to dialogue with Prime Minister Edouard Philippe.
