USPA NEWS - The digital economy has a staggering impact on U.S. growth and economic opportunity. In 2014 the US exported roughly $400 billion in digitally-deliverable services, accounting for more than half of U.S. services exports and about 1/6 of all U.S. goods and services. Commerce launches Digital Attache.

IN 2014 US EXPORTED $400 Bn IN DIGITALLY DELIVERABLE SERVICES------

Ten years ago less than 18 percent of the world's population had access to the Internet. Last year roughly 3 billion people"approximately 43 percent of global population"were online. This is phenomenal growth, and the pace of change is continuing. The digital economy has a staggering impact on U.S. growth and economic opportunity. Consider this fact: In 2014 the United States exported roughly $400 billion in digitally-deliverable services, accounting for more than half of U.S. services exports and about one-sixth of all U.S. goods and services exports. One study recently reported that the Internet economy already represents over 5 percent of U.S. GDP. Additionally, in G-20 developed markets the Internet economy is expected to grow at an annual rate of 8 percent over the next five years, far outpacing just about every traditional economic sector.
